

Million team Self-reflection

Kundu Gui

Time: 18/09/2019(Week7)

Role(s): Project Manager/Developer

1. What have I done since the last time reported?

I looked at all the feedback I received and reflected it in the organization group, making decisions for each feed and archiving them at the same time.

I helped the backend team read the json file.

I organize meetings and client meetings in the group and record the meeting and organize the meeting records after the meeting.

I sorted out our repository to make it look clearer.

2. Self-reflection?

Due to insufficient tracking within the group, it was decided to use everyone's short report form to ensure that all aspects of the work progress of each of our members can be well tracked, thus improving the management of the team.

3. What is the planned until next time report?

Continue to promote intra-group cooperation to ensure that the original tasks can be completed in the seventh week, involve the back-end team to help them improve their work schedule (database), continue to hold meetings and documentation, and complete the Sprint review.
