Million team Self-reflection
Rui Zhang
Time: 29/09/2019(Week8)
Role(s): Developer/Risk manager

What have I done since the last time reported?

This week, we worked together to analyze and summarize the feedback from the tutorial, and negotiated with the client to adjust the final output expectations of our entire project.
I continuously participated in the backend team work with more research on Django.db.
I assisted our group members to deal with some technical problems.

Self-reflection?
This week, I recovered from the last week of stressful exams and continued to work hard on the development of the project. The 10-hour workload may not be enough to cope with the difficulties we face. I tried to solve many technical problems. Fortunately, through in-time research, I am gradually solving the problem I face.

What is the planned until next time report?
Hope to implement the following backend functions, that is, the information of the request returned by the front end can be grabbed and then to perform the crud operation in the corresponding database under the Django framework and return a json.